Fire devastates Cutty Sark ship

The Cutty Sark ship, one of London's most popular tourist attractions, (1) has been devastated (devastate) by a fire, which police think may (2) have been started (start) on purpose.

More than 40 fire fighters (3) were called (call) to the 138-year-old tea clipper ship in Greenwich early on Monday morning.

The ship (4) had recently been closed (close) to visitors so improvements costing £25 million could (5) be carried (carry) out.

A spokesman for the London fire service said the whole ship (6) was affected (affect) by the massive fire but nobody (7) was hurt (hurt).

Police don't know what caused the fire yet, but said they were treating it as suspicious. That means the fire may (8) have been started (start) on purpose rather than by accident.

Chris Livett, from the group which looks after the ship, said the fire was a significant setback but they were determined to put the ship back together again.

He said the decks could not (9) be saved (save) but the damage didn't appear as bad as first feared.

Half the planking, as well as all the old artefacts on board, escaped damage as they (10) had been removed (remove) while the refurbishment work was under way.

He added: "She's been through storms and hurricanes. She's been battling all her life. She's not dead yet, far from it."

The Cutty Sark (11) was used (use) to carry tea around the world in the 19th century. It now sits at a dry dock at Greenwich as a living museum.
